Remembrance

Every year on 11 November, we pause to remember those who have served and died in wars and conflicts around the world. Remembrance Day is an opportunity to honour their sacrifice and reflect on the cost of war, as well as the suffering it brings to individuals, families and communities.

We also remember the innocent civilians who have lost their lives in conflict, and recognise the contribution of families and emergency services who have supported others through times of great difficulty.

Remembering the past, challenges us to work towards a more peaceful future. By recognising the pain and suffering caused by war, we can renew our commitment to building a world where conflict no longer destroys lives and communities. Remembrance is not simply about looking backwards; it is also about considering how we can contribute to peace today.

As Christians, we believe that God is at work in our world, bringing us towards a day when war, suffering and death will be no more. At the very end of the Bible, in the book of Revelation, we find a beautiful promise: God will wipe every tear from our eyes, and there will be no more death, mourning, crying or pain. It is a picture of the lasting peace and restoration that God promises.

Throughout the Bible, we are also reminded that we can trust God with our future. Time and again, people are encouraged not to be afraid, because God is with them, even in the most difficult and frightening circumstances. This does not mean that life will always be easy, or that we will never experience fear or sadness. Rather, it reminds us that we do not have to face those things alone.

For many people, Remembrance Day is a deeply emotional occasion. It can bring back painful memories of loved ones lost, difficult experiences and the fear that such suffering might happen again. Yet remembrance also reminds us of the value of every human life and the importance of treating one another with dignity, compassion and respect. Whatever our background or circumstances, we all have worth, and we can all play a part in building a more peaceful world.

The Bible often uses the image of light to describe the hope that God brings into a dark world. For me, this is a particularly comforting reminder when the world feels uncertain or frightening. No matter how dark things may seem, I believe there is no darkness that God's light cannot overcome.

So, as we come to Remembrance Sunday this month on the 8th of November please do join us as we gather as a community to remember what has happened in our history but also to commit ourselves as people of faith to choosing peace over violence. To bring hope instead of pain, joy and light instead of anger and darkness.

As the world seems increasingly unstable, we need to remember not to repeat the mistakes of the past and to instead choose a better way. When the disciples are sent out by Jesus in Luke 10 they are told that where they go they are to bring peace. As Jesus' disciples today we have that same task, to bring peace wherever we go and to be advocates of peace in the world.

So let's all be praying for peace, for more peacemakers, and for God to bring peace to our own lives and to the world through our actions. God bless.

God, Are You Speaking?

In the book of Samuel in the Bible, which tells the story of how Samuel came to hear God and was used by God to steer a nation, we read 'the word of the Lord was rare in those days'. I wonder if the word of God is rare in our days? Of course those of you familiar with liturgy might say, the word of the Lord is far from rare; every week we say 'this is the word of the Lord' after the bible reading is read. This is absolutely true. So what does it mean for God to speak?

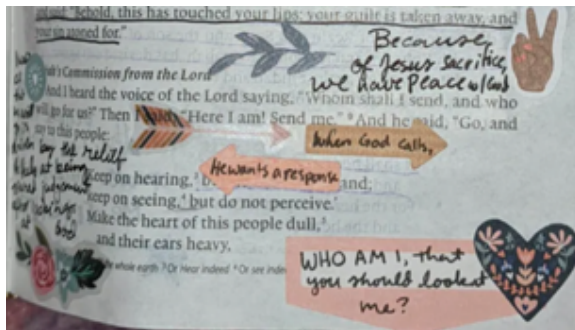

Backtracking a little, it is perfectly possible that God speaks but we don't hear or perhaps listen.

So how might God speak, and how might we tune in to him? Here are just a few examples that you might try out this week:

Example 1: From The Bible.

The claim of the Bible is that it is not just a book, but rather that it is alive, that it functions as a sort of conduit through which God still speaks to us. If you have not read one before you might think about taking one from the front of church (they are entirely free), and start in Luke's gospel. But before you read it or any other part of the Bible begin by saying to God, 'Would you speak to me through this'. Then read with a pen in your hand and underline anything you feel stands out. You will be surprised how often God speaks in this way, and gives us something fresh for today as well as reminding us of ancient truths that keep spiritually feeding us

Example 2: A gut feeling.

The Bible teaches that the Holy Spirit nudges us. He leads us. Sometimes these nudges are bigger than others. Often they help us to know things to say or not say, or perhaps someone you should help or contact. I often sense the nudge of God to message someone and often I find God is absolutely spot on with his timing. Many of us feel these sort of nudges and a bit like Elijah in 1 Kings 19 in the bible, God is often speaking, if only we would plan enough stillness to be aware of His voice. Elijah discovered God speaking in a whisper

Example 3: Images, words, and Bible verses coming to mind.

When Jesus returned to heaven after his crucifixion, resurrection and about 40 further days on earth, He promised those who had taken up His teachings, and become Christians would not be alone. He promised the Holy Spirit. And one of the things the Holy Spirit promises to do is to keep us connected to God. This happens in all sorts of ways but one of those ways is by communicating to us. Joel chapter 2 gives us a broad picture of what this might look like: dreams, images in our imagination, words coming to mind. and later Jesus reminds us of the things Jesus himself taught. Particularly when we are still ourselves, we can find God speaking in these and other ways. One of the key ways we can respond is to note them down, pray about them, and ask God for a nudge what he wants you to do with them

Example 4: Seeming co-incidences: In Acts chapter 8, we come across Philip who was an early Christian being guided to talk to an Ethiopian who was in a carriage on the road. They were placed by God in each other's lives for less than a day, but in that day Philip changed the course of that man's life. Sometimes God puts people in our lives too. Sometimes for a short time, and sometimes a long time. Key in this way of hearing God, is to look out for who He is bringing across your path and be attentive to ask why. A while ago I met someone who just kept meeting Christians wherever they went. I remember asking 'Do you think God may be trying to tell you something?' Who comes across your path, and might God be using you in each other's lives for a particular purpose?

As well as these examples, there are other ways, but can I encourage you, it is much easier to hear when you are trying to listen. So perhaps carve out some time this week and be still with God, reflect on whether He is already speaking to you, perhaps in a whisper, or perhaps in a far more obvious way. Have a wonderful November and if you want to find out more about hearing God in your life do get in touch.

Bless you.

Natalie, one of the interns who joined us over the summer, is coming back...

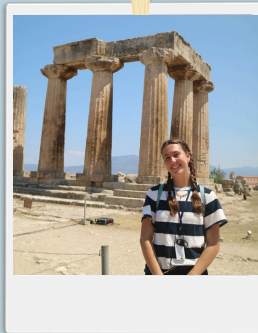

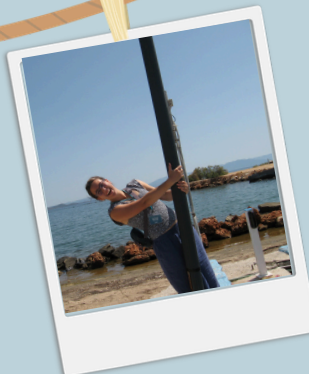

Hi, if we haven't met already my name is Natalie! I had the pleasure of being a part of All Saints' Church this past summer. I served in many ways specifically with the youth and children's ministries. The Lord has placed a wonderful opportunity for me to come back and serve again and I am so beyond grateful! Serving alongside your team has been one of the biggest blessings in my life and I am thrilled to be coming back!

I love all things music, puzzles, hiking, reading, and have even found a new love for running. I am so excited to continue to walk in God's will for my life and can't wait to see you all again! Since being home, I found out that I am going to be an aunt! I am so thrilled and excited! Baby Jude will be here in April!

Recently, the Lord has placed this scripture on my heart: "And whatever you do, in word or deed, do everything in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through him." Colossians 3:17

Be in prayer with me, in all that we do and say let it be glorifying to God! I am eager to share the love of Jesus with the community and the church! Thank you guys so much for having me!

Thank you,
Natalie Taylor
